COURIER-JOURNAL: The Yeoman thinks that the fact that Kentucky ladies carried off all the best premiums for needle work at the St. Louis fair is enough to prove that Kentucky women have more than their loveliness to recommend them. The Yeoman is eminently correct.

The total valuation of property in the State for 1882, as listed by the assessors, and returned to the auditor is as follows: White $360,173,428; colored $3,129,020; total, $363,302,448; valuation, 1881, $359,539,385; increased, $3,763,066. The tax due on the valuation of 1882, at forty-seven and a half cents on each $100, is $1,725,606.62.

News from Virginia indicates that the Democrats will scoop the state at the November election. Mahone has lost his grip and the administration, with all its patronage is unable to keep him in power. Political bosses, whose only strength lies in spoils, must sooner or later go, notwithstanding the Republican idea of boss or machine politics.

The Cincinnati correspondent of the Courier-Journal says:

The new Democratic morning paper, directed by Governor Underwood, which was to have appeared here on the 6th inst., (yesterday) did not appear, but is going ahead all the same. Gov. Underwood and Foreman Logan are in New York getting the presses, a fine building on Race street, corner of Longworth, has been secured, considerable material has already gone in, telegraph matter has been arranged for, and every indication points toward a definite realization of a straight Democratic paper for Cincinnati at an early date.

For the year 1881, the result of the present tariff monopoly, as to taxation and the distribution of its proceeds are tabulated as follows: Revenue received by the government, $193,800,897; bounty received by monopoly recipients, $1,250,000,000. So that, for every dollar paid into the national treasury under the existing tariff, six and a half dollars go into the pockets of the favored few who receive bounty under a vicious system that robs the many for the benefit of the few.
